Pathways to Peace® is a long-term community based, violence reduction/crime prevention program. Pathways to Peace® provides the means to increase levels of resiliency in individuals, families and communities.

- Pathways to Peace® is Australian.
- Pathways to Peace® cuts across racial, ethnic, religious and social divides.
- Pathways to Peace® has been designed along a developmental continuum from Years 0 to High School. This means that it is easy to use in Child Care/Kindergarten settings, but is also equally usable in a Primary School, a High School or in a Family setting.
- Pathways to Peace® is community-oriented and includes a Family Package, as well as a Package for Community Agencies.
- Pathways to Peace® is user-friendly.
- Pathways to Peace® is flexible and adaptable.
- Pathways to Peace® is colourful and appealing.
- Pathways to Peace® has been developed with congruence to current Education Queensland curricula, but is flexible enough to operate without difficulty in other States.
- Pathways to Peace® offers a complete preventative framework, not least in terms of Behaviour Management plans, policies and practices.
- Pathways to Peace® is an anti-bullying program but offers much more than a program targeting bullying.
- Pathways to Peace® offers service and support as the key to development.
- Pathways to Peace® is cost-effective.
- Pathways to Peace® is notable for its longevity.
- Pathways to Peace® is universalistic rather than exceptionalistic.
- Pathways to Peace® is proactive rather than reactive.
- Pathways to Peace® has the potential to positively affect the lives of every man, woman and child in any particular community. It builds on the existing good practice within the community.

Pathways to Peace® complements existing programs but offers a means of simplifying and unifying programs.

The Peace Code provides a working language that everyone can use.

care for myself and others  do the right thing  be brave find help  speak kindly  turn things around be a peacemaker
